

Tesla is accelerating the shift toward sustainable transport and energy consumption by producing the world's best electric cars and energy generation and storage systems. We hire the world's best and brightest people to help make this future a reality.

In conjunction with the New York State Department of Labor, Tesla is hosting a series Workforce Information Sessions where we will share more information about career opportunities at its Gigafactory2 solar manufacturing facility located in Buffalo.

Anyone interested in learning more about careers in solar and advanced manufacturing is invited to attend!

The first session will occur:
